DOUGLAS P. MCCORMACK

Vice Chairman

Doug McCormack has spent the past 25 years engaged at the intersection of health care policy, law, politics and business. He specializes in solving complex challenges at the federal level through creative solutions and tenacious advocacy. Mr. McCormack returns to providing professional services after a decade of corporate health care experience.

For the past ten years, Mr. McCormack has been founder, CEO and Chairman of two venture-backed technology companies in the medical device and digital health sectors. Under his leadership, these companies amassed nearly two dozen patents, were recognized with multiple R&D 100 and Edison Awards for innovation, and partnered with Apple to feature the first medical device brought to market with patient connectivity and control via an iPhone app. Mr. McCormack exited his first business through a strategic asset sale to a global market leader based in Germany.

Prior to his entrepreneurial career, Doug spent fifteen years in health policy and advocacy, including as a lawyer in a top DC-based law firm, and then as a partner in a global law firm where he was a co-founder of that firm's public policy and advocacy practice group. In this capacity, he focused on representing before Congress and federal agencies a range of health care interests, including hospitals and health systems, hospital consortia, physician and specialty practice groups, trade associations, group purchasing organizations, and medical technology companies.

Doug received his undergraduate degree from the University of Southern California and his Juris Doctorate from American University's Washington College of Law. He is a member of the Maryland and District of Columbia bars, and serves on the boards of several early-stage technology companies.
